Consequences: I know:

- state and federal privacy laws protect my records;
- why I am being asked to release this information or that this authorization is made at my request;
- signing this authorization will not affect my treatment, payment, enrollment or eligibility for benefits;
- that, generally, I must give my written consent for DHS to give out the information;
- that if I do not consent, the information will not be released unless the law otherwise allows it;
- I may stop this consent with a written notice to DHS at any time, but this written notice will not affect information DHS has already released;
- My right to stop this authorization may be limited by exceptions stated in DHS' Notice of Privacy Practices, which may be found on the DHS public website;
- that the person or agency that gets my information may be able to pass it on to others;
- that if DHS passes my information on to others, it may no longer be protected by this authorization; and
- that this authorization ends one year from the date I sign it, unless the law allows for a longer period.
